

Celebrate Fall

Window Painting Event

Please join us as we celebrate Fall with our city-wide Window Painting Event. Let's bring back the nostalgic look of window painting during this Fall and Halloween season. We are looking for participants to paint windows at local businesses and Senior Living Facilities.

Remember when...

Pictured here are Andrea Teodosio (1988-2011) & Cathleen Zignego painting a window at the former Stow-Kent Plaza. Photo taken about 1999 by Tom Teodosio (used with permission).

And NOW..

Local artist Kimmy Henderson painting a window at Stow City Hall.

Register BEFORE OCTOBER 5 –
Submit your drawing and register at
STOWOHIO.RECDESK.COM

Supplies & location of the window you'll be painting will be available to pick up at City Hall October 13-16.

You may begin painting your assigned window October 14th and all painting must be completed by October 18th.

We are asking all painters to return and clean up their windows and remove the painting beginning November 1st and completing no later than November 7th.

Basic paint colors and necessary supplies will be provided.

Stow resident and local artist Kimmy Henderson will provide a tutorial on mixing paint to create colors and the process of painting on a window. The tutorial will be available on YouTube.

Kimmy Henderson

Celebrate Fall

Window Painting Event

Calling all Stow residents: kids, parents, grandparents, and anyone in between! It's time to have some fall fun!! They say, "Everything old is new again," and that's exactly what we're going to show with this year's fall fun. We're bringing back an old favorite fall and Halloween activity, window painting, and we're looking to show everyone that Stow is truly "Tradition Centered. Future Focused."

For years young people painted the windows of the old Stow-Kent Plaza stores every fall, just in time for Halloween. The City of Stow and The Stow Arts Commission feel this nostalgic activity should be revived, with a city-wide Window Painting Event. This year's event is open to anyone of any age, and we'll paint the windows of local businesses and senior living facilities.

The City and the Arts Commission will supply the paint in several basic colors, along with all necessary supplies. Stow resident and well-known artist Kimmy Henderson will provide a tutorial on mixing paints to create more colors and explain the process of painting on window glass. The tutorial will be available on YouTube.

A preliminary sketch/drawing of what you plan to paint, along with your registration will be submitted at STOWOHIO.RECDESK.COM before October 5. Supplies and the location of the window you'll be painting will be available for pickup at Stow City Hall, October 13-16.

You may begin painting your assigned window October 14, and all painting must be completed by October 18. All painters are expected to return and remove the painting beginning November 1, and making sure everything is completed by November 7.

Window Painting is back in Stow! Be a part of a little nostalgia mixed in with the ideas and talents of today. It's a way to have Fall Fun in Stow!